Overview

Introduction

This paper provides information about new initiatives in the 2009-10 Budget, and those implemented since the 2008-09 Mid-Year Budget Review (MYBR), that have a significant regional impact.

The prosperity and wellbeing of people and communities in regional South Australia is critical to the sustainability of the entire state. Viable regional economies contribute significantly to our economic growth and this needs to be partnered with strong social networks and environmental measures that conserve our water and other natural resources.

The achievement of South Australia's Strategic Plan objectives for regional communities is affected by distance, population and circumstances specific to each region. Through Community Cabinets, and other community forums conducted by the Regional Communities Consultative Council (RCCC), the government is open to hearing the concerns and issues of regional people and stakeholders.

Regionalisation of South Australia's Strategic Plan

South Australia's Strategic Plan sets down six objectives for strengthening South Australia economically, socially and environmentally — Growing Prosperity, Improving Wellbeing, Attaining Sustainability, Fostering Creativity, Building Communities and Expanding Opportunity. The Plan is for the whole of South Australia and invites collaboration and cooperation between governments, communities and business.

Following extensive community consultation, the government adopted a comprehensive process for 'regionalising' the Plan. With the involvement of the Community Engagement Board and the Director, Community Engagement (Department of the Premier and Cabinet), regional stakeholders developed coordinated regional approaches for pursuing South Australia's Strategic Plan targets that reflect priorities specific to each region. All non-metropolitan regions have completed this process. 'Regionalisation' of South Australia's Strategic Plan is assisted by the adoption of common regional boundaries across all agencies. The three planning areas, and twelve reporting regions, are as follows:

Adelaide Metropolitan Area

- Eastern Adelaide; Northern Adelaide; Southern Adelaide; and Western Adelaide

Greater Adelaide Area

- Adelaide Hills; Barossa; and Fleurieu and Kangaroo Island

Country Regions

- Eyre and Western; Far North; Limestone Coast; Murray and Mallee; and Yorke and Mid North

Regional Development Program

The Government of South Australia's program for regional development comprises a range of resources to support regions and monitor regional service delivery across government. This is provided by the Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) through the Office of Small Business and Regional Development.

The Minister for Regional Development is advised by the RCCC on matters concerning regions, including the impact of decisions on regional communities and opportunities for initiatives to advance social, economic and environmental development that will improve quality of life in regional South Australia.

DTED (through the Office of Small Business and Regional Development) has coordinated a cross-government approach to regional development, working with regional development boards (RDBs) and other stakeholders, providing support to the RCCC, and promoting the interests of South Australia's regions.

DTED employs eight staff in regional South Australia. These include five regional managers who are based in Clare, Berri, Mount Gambier, Port Lincoln and Port Augusta, and three tradestart officers who are based in Mount Gambier, Port Augusta, and Port Lincoln. A further regional manager and tradestart officer are based in Adelaide.

The regional managers focus on:

- regionalisation of South Australia's Strategic Plan;
- working with RDBs to achieve economic outcomes;
- facilitating projects in the regions;
- providing local information, policy development and advice to government; and
- providing a DTED and whole of government program link to the local community.

The tradestart officers focus on building exports throughout South Australia, as part of a national program with Austrade.

The government's decision making processes are guided by the Regional Impact Assessment Statement policy to ensure that it is better informed about regional interests. As well as requiring that Cabinet submissions include regional impact statements, the government also requires that significant decisions about services include a full regional impact assessment before they are implemented.

Regional Communities Consultative Council

The Regional Communities Consultative Council (RCCC) provides advice on regional matters to the Minister for Regional Development. Members are community leaders from regions across the state who have insight and expertise on regional issues. The RCCC has strong links with, and consults directly with, regional South Australian communities through quarterly forums at which local issues for education, transport, infrastructure, environment, and health are identified and considered by the RCCC.

RCCC members maintain their involvement with South Australia's Strategic Plan with key roles on regional steering committees set up under the regionalisation process. The council met and consulted with communities in the following locations during 2008-09:

- Melrose — September 2008;
- Fleurieu Peninsula — November 2008;
- Limestone Coast — February 2009; and
- Whyalla — May 2009.

Regional Development Infrastructure Fund

The Regional Development Infrastructure Fund (RDIF) is a key part of the government's regional program. The RDIF is administered by DTED to provide grants for, and leverage further investment in, regional infrastructure projects.

The RDIF aims to increase investment in strategic areas of regional infrastructure that support job creation, exports and economic growth. Since its inception (1999), the RDIF has committed approximately $27 million to support projects estimated to have contributed $1.3 billion in total regional investment, creating an estimated 5444 jobs.

Regional Development Australia

The Government of South Australia, in partnership with the Commonwealth Government and local government, plans to launch a new era in regional development, beginning from 1 July 2009.

In South Australia, state and local government already have a strong partnership in the funding of regional development services. The new Regional Development Australia (RDA) network will also bring the Commonwealth into partnership at the service level, allowing for more effective use of joint resources of the three levels of government, and providing a one-stop integrated approach to regional service delivery.

The proposal in South Australia is to transition from the current thirteen RDBs and five Area Consultative Committees to eight RDAs based on the government's common regional boundaries, with seven of those in regional South Australia and one covering the metropolitan area.

There will be no loss of service locations under the new arrangements — all locations covered by the current arrangements will continue to have a service presence under the RDA network, and the state government will continue to provide substantial funding to the state's regional development organisations.

The RDA network will also maintain the provision of a service delivery function in regional South Australia for existing state and Commonwealth programs, including 'SA Works' (Department of Further Education, Employment, Science and Technology), Regional Food Program and Far North Economic Development initiatives (Primary Industries and Resources South Australia), and skilled migration and Tradestart programs for DTED.

The Government of South Australia wishes to acknowledge the contribution of the RDBs to the communities of regional South Australia on behalf of state and local governments. RDA builds on these contributions and strengths in order to forge a partnership that will further serve the people of regional South Australia.

Regional Highlights

The new initiatives in this budget that specifically relate to regional South Australia, along with ongoing and statewide commitments, will enable government, in partnership with regional communities and business, to implement South Australia's Strategic Plan. This includes where the Government of South Australia has entered into partnership with the Commonwealth Government to undertake a number of new initiatives, including in the areas of health, housing, education and roads.

The new initiatives detailed in this document for statewide commitments are consistent with the amounts shown in Budget Paper 3, Chapter 2. New initiatives of this budget, and those implemented since the 2008-09 MYBR, are summarised below.

  - the National School Pride program, which will enable primary and secondary schools to undertake construction of small-scale infrastructure and/or minor refurbishment projects.

In addition, the Science and Language Centres for 21st Century Secondary Schools program will provide in the order of $59 million in 2009-10 for government secondary schools in South Australia that demonstrate the greatest need and the capacity to be able to build the facilities in 2009-10.

- $7.1 million over four years, in addition to $0.8 million in 2008-09, for improved government service delivery in the APY Lands.

REGIONAL ECONOMIC CONDITIONS

Despite the continued impact of low rainfall, the value of primary production occurring in the regional economies of South Australia recovered in 2007-08 from drought ravaged levels in 2006-07. Significant gains in the value of field crops and wine grapes, along with continued growth in the petroleum and minerals sectors were recorded in 2007-08. The 2008-09 winter crop production is expected to be down slightly compared to the 2007-08 season.

All regional areas of the state recorded growth in population during 2007-08.

Population and Unemployment

The estimated resident population of South Australia's Country Regions (based on the government's common regional boundaries) was 297 200 persons as at 30 June 2008. Country Region population increased by 2000 persons or 0.7 per cent from a year earlier and accounted for 18.5 per cent of the total population of the state, which was 1.6 million.

Growth in the population of Country Regions has been increasing for the last three consecutive years, and the growth recorded over the year to 30 June 2008 of 0.7 per cent was the highest annual growth rate recorded in over 25 years.

All Country Regions recorded population growth during 2007-08, with the Far North recording the highest percentage growth over the year to 30 June 2008 at 0.9 per cent, followed by the Limestone Coast at 0.8 per cent, both the Yorke and Mid North, and Eyre and Western at 0.7 per cent, and Murray and Mallee at 0.4 per cent.

The estimated resident population of the Greater Adelaide Area was 177 900 at 30 June 2008, 3000 persons or 1.7 per cent higher than a year earlier. The Adelaide Metropolitan Area had an estimated resident population of 1.1 million, 12 600 persons or 1.1 per cent higher than a year earlier.

According to the Commonwealth Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations, the unemployment rate for South Australia's Country Regions averaged 5.2 per cent during 2008. The Adelaide Metropolitan Area unemployment rate averaged 5.1 per cent during 2008. During 2008, the average unemployment rate was lowest in the Greater Adelaide Area (3.1 per cent) and highest in the Far North region (7.5 per cent).

Primary Production

Detailed information on primary production activity is not yet available for 2008-09. However, the Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics (ABARE) estimate that the 2008-09 winter crop production for South Australia will be 4.5 million tonnes, a 0.4 million tonne (or 8.0 per cent) decrease from the 2007-08 season. This result is below mid-year expectations, with rainfall predominantly below average across the whole state. Conditions from September through to October were particularly dry, leading to a significant fall in potential yield. Grain yields and quality were reported to be highly variable because of the dry conditions and overall crop yields were estimated to have been significantly below average. The winter crop includes wheat, barley, oats, lupins, canola, field peas, chickpeas, faba beans, and lentils.

Primary Industries and Resources South Australia (PIRSA) estimates that the overall value of South Australia's primary (agricultural and mineral) production was $8.9 billion in 2007-08. This represents an increase of 28 per cent from the 2006-07 estimate. Most of the increase was due to a major rebound in the field crop sector from a drought affected 2006-07, along with strong growth in the wine grapes, petroleum and minerals sectors.

Field crops and wine grapes were the two sectors that recorded the largest gains. The growth in the value of field crop production resulted from the combined effect of very strong price increases for grains as well as a rebound in production levels following a very poor 2006-07 season. Although rising by 313 per cent in 2007-08, total field crop production was still 6 per cent below the six-year average. Wine grapes experienced growth in both price and volume terms. Compared to 2006-07, there was a 42 per cent increase in wine grape production and an 82 per cent increase in the farm gate value of the harvest.

Despite a 7 per cent decline in the volume of dairy production in 2007-08, strong price rises resulted in a 26 per cent increase in value terms in 2007-08. Livestock production declined slightly in 2007-08, down 8.3 per cent in value terms with declines in beef and sheep farming partially offset by increases in poultry and pig farming.

The minerals sector remained the largest in value terms during 2007-08, recording an increase of 5 per cent in the value of production to a total of $2.6 billion.

While commodity prices have dropped significantly across many areas due to the global financial crisis, prices remain comparatively strong for commodities for many of South Australia's operating mines:

- gold (Challenger, Prominent Hill, Olympic Dam);
- uranium (Olympic Dam, Beverly, Honeymoon); and
- heavy mineral sands (Jacinth-Ambrosia, Mindarie, Tripitaka).

Over the longer-term, there remains a solid pipeline of around 30 mineral development projects, as well as the planned expansion of Olympic Dam. Feasibility studies are progressing and gaining approvals, and while some operations may be delayed, most companies have projects ready to move quickly into production as world economic demand recovers.

(a) Values represent nominal farm gate, mine gate, or petroleum refinery gate levels, which, in turn, may represent different levels of value-add or refining depending on the activities involved. For example, mineral values do not include all refining (processing) that occurs beyond the mine gate within the state (such as One-Steel, Whyalla, or Zinifex, Port Pirie, activity), although do include the refining that occurs within a mine site (such as within the Olympic Dam example).
